PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

The Bond University Master of Laws (LLM) is an 80 credit point postgraduate law program that is made up of law subjects selected by the student from a wide range of specialist areas. It can be completed in two semesters of full-time study, or undertaken on a part-time basis. The LLM (International Commercial Law and Dispute Resolution) has been designed to prepare law students and legal practitioners from different cultural and legal backgrounds for confident and ethical legal practice in an international commercial environment. The subjects have been developed and are delivered by internationally renowned legal scholars located in a variety of different countries. Each subject considers the law from a genuinely international perspective rather than focusing upon the laws of a particular jurisdiction.

PROGRAM STRUCTURE

The LLM (International Commercial Law and Dispute Resolution) can be completed entirely online, or as a combination of online and on-campus subjects. To be eligible to graduate with a specialisation in International Commercial Law and Dispute Resolution, students must complete at least two of the 20 credit point subjects listed in the table below, all of which are delivered online.

Students can choose to complete all four of the 20 credit point subjects below, or combine the minimum of two subjects with 40 credit points of other postgraduate law subjects offered by the Faculty of Law.
